

DRESS HINTS AND HOME AFFAIRS ADVICE FOR WOMEN

Paris Patterns

No. 1841.

Ladies' Combination Corset-Cover and Short Petticoat.

Another of those admirable combinations in underwear which simplify the attire of the modern woman is evidenced in this union of corset-cover and under-petticoat. Each garment is cut separately and joined at the belt by the narrow band of embroidered heading through which the ribbon is run. The pattern is in 7 sizes—32 to 44 inches, bust measure. For 36 bust, the garment requires 3 1/2 yards of goods 36 inches wide; 3 3/4 yards of heading, 4 1/2 yards of ribbon, 7 1/2 yards of insertion, and 3 1/4 yards of edging to trim.

To obtain this pattern or any of the others heretofore described in The Times fill out the following coupon and inclose it with 10 cents in an envelope addressed to the Fashion Editor, The Washington Times, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.

Dried Bean Roast

Soak one and a half cupsful of navy beans in warm water for twelve hours, pour off the water, cover with fresh water to which a pinch of baking soda has been added; boil fifteen minutes. Drain. Cover again with water; add two slices of onion, salt, and cook until perfectly tender. Rub through a sieve; thickened with a little corn meal, and serve with a little cream. The meat chopper, season with pepper, one teaspoonful of thyme, shape into a loaf and bake twenty minutes. Serve with the roast, tomato or mushroom sauce. If preferred the bean mixture may be made into small cakes and fried.

A vegetable stock may be made from beans. Soak as usual. To one large cupful of navy beans add three slices of turnip, two carrots, two sticks of celery, eight peppercorns, a bay leaf, salt, and two cloves. If a brown stock is desired, the beans in butter until well browned. Strain and before serving add a little catsup.

DANCED HERSELF TO DEATH, BUT NEVER MISSED A WHIRL

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 16.—Dancing a waltz, which brought to a close a ball at Seventh and Myrtle streets, Mrs. Annie Schaefer, 907 McKean street, collapsed in the arms of her partner and fell dead on the ball-room floor.

A physician who was summoned said the young woman had danced herself to death.

There were twenty-four dances, including two steps, quadrilles, polkas, and waltzes, and not one was missed by the young woman.

COMBS SCALP SCHOOLGIRL WHEN CELLULOID IGNITES

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., March 16.—Sitting by the fireside studying her lessons, Florence, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Fred Reubenstine, became drowsy and fell forward. The heat from the stove ignited the celluloid combs in her hair and set the hair on fire.

Her screams brought her younger sister to her rescue, and the latter smothered the flames with a wet towel. The hair was burned off the blistered crown of the girl's head.

A Gastronomic Pill

"If we didn't have to cook and eat," I've often heard my sister say. "The housewife's life would be a treat. And living then would pay."

And now it really seems to me Her dream is coming true. For they've made a capsule, don't you see, Which you neither cook nor chew;

But swallow down, just like a pill, And take a good, deep drink Of water, and you're nourished till Another meal-time—think!

No pies to make or fruit to peel, No cakes nor salad dressing, But just a capsule for a meal, No pastries, stuff, or messing.

And when we entertain our friends, Instead of heat and worry, We'll give them each a condensed pill, Thus dining in a hurry.

And while on this the gastric juice Is acting out its duty, We may just talk aesthetic use And find our life all beauty.

Ah, yes! a tablet, capsule, pill, Will reconstruct the nation; 'Twill fill the gastronomic bill And create a transformation.

Don't wear a tailor-made dress with a picture hat. Such a combination is as artistic as it is unsuitable.—Woman's Life.

Useful Sundries

An apple or two baked in the inside of the corset will absorb any rankness of oily flavor.

To extract the juice from lemons easily place them in a moderate oven for five minutes before squeezing.

To make boots polish, rub with the inside half a lemon, allow to dry, and black in the usual way, when a brilliant polish will be at once obtained.

Burnt sugar is recommended as a deodorizer. Sprinkle the sugar on a few live coals on a shovel and leave in the room for five minutes. Afterward air the room.

Linon collars have returned to prominence and designers are turning out many tasteful ideas in these dress accessories. Turnover collars remain first in popularity—not the little turnover muslin hands or dress protectors, which seem to be rather going out of style, but starched linen turnover collars.

The fashion of dining in public has produced in Paris an airy little mousseline toque trimmed with gold, and having either an upstanding cigarette or a sweeping plume. This little chapeau is worn to the theater after dinner. A kind of Marie Stuart cap is also being worn by a few women to whom it is becoming.

Dietary experts warn people, especially city dwellers, against the too constant use of artificial preparations and modifications of food. For continued use, these are inferior to ordinary foods cooked in the usual way. It is easier to use cereals that require no cooking or are prepared by merely pouring on boiling water; soups that need only to be diluted and heated, etc., but in a very short time the body suffers for lack of proper nourishment. It is certain that the corner delicatessen shop is responsible for a great many starved bodies. Children especially need solid food, hygienically cooked. They should be given the kind of food that requires them to use their teeth.

Fancies for a Fiancee

If you want to help the man you are going to marry to be strong and true, show him that you believe he has every good quality. You will raise his own self-respect and bring him to the level you tell him he occupies.

Don't make the mistake of thinking it is all going to be paradise. You are going to marry a man who will come home tired, cross, and fagged, and he won't find relief for all his trials in a caress and a few tender words, as he did before marriage, when they were more of a novelty. He would rather have his dinner, though he may not confess it. When he has been fed and comforted, however, he will be ready for this tenderness, and the fact that he did not feel demonstrative when his stomach was empty will be no sign that he is not still in love.

Believe in the man you take as your life's partner; be gentle with him; don't contradict him when he is tired; let him think he is having his own way in his own house; feed him with what he likes and laugh at his jokes. Herein lies the secret of a happy home.

Why Some Girls Marry

Some men with a masculine passion for statistics submits the following tabulated reasons why women marry. He is a modest little man. Most men think they know why women marry. However, let us be quite serious. Our statistician gathered from his inquiries addressed to about ninety-five girls these results:

Five wished to marry in order that they might get out unchaperoned.

Ten because they would then be able to amuse themselves.

Five because their husbands would enable them to travel.

Seven so that they would own their own homes.

Four looked forward to possessing a family.

Not one of the girls suggested love as a motive for matrimony. Either the little girl had not yet landed his arrow or they were ashamed to admit the fact. Oh, these ubiquitous explanations that do not explain.

Veils and Ruffs

After viewing many veil counters the opinion is that the motor-veil has precedence over all other kinds. And while they are all the rage, it is just a trifle puzzling to note how inexpensive they are. Usually they sell in two-and-a-quarter-yard lengths, and many of the very neatest patterns sell for 25 cents per yard. The chiffon ruff is shown in countless styles. One of the neatest was fashioned of large chiffon rosettes; in the center of each flower-like rosette was a curl of blue ribbon about one inch long. The ribbon added very attractive to the thin-looking chiffon.

Strong minds suffer without complaining; weak ones complain without suffering.—Home Notes.

New Use for Directory

A stylish dressed and altogether good looking woman was turning over the leaves of the directory in a leisurely manner when an irascible old gentleman, known to his acquaintances as a man with a very small stock of patience, entered.

He wished to use the directory, too, possibly to look up an address of a man who owed him money.

He stood about, now and then casting heavy looks in the direction of the directory, and coughed suggestively. A business man in a hurry followed. He wanted to know where Walter Jones lived.

It is a block or two away. He had forgotten the number. He fell in line.

Then the man who sought some city official, but knew nothing of his office, except that it closed in a few minutes, joined the ranks of waiters.

Still the woman placidly turned over leaf after leaf, without any apparent intention to decide whether it was Brown, Jones, or Smith she was seeking.

Finally, when matters were beginning to grow very tense, a young man rushed in.

His mission would positively admit of no delay, so he politely offered to assist the young woman, suggesting that his experience might tend to lessen her labor and save time.

When he asked her what name she sought, with a sweet smile full of appreciation, she said:

"Oh, thank you. You are very kind. I am trying to find a real pretty name for my brother's baby. He has asked me to name it. It's a boy and it's so hard to find a real pretty name."

To Remedy Damp Walls

The following simple process is said to effectually do away with all dampness of walls. Applications are made alternately of dissolved caustic soap and dissolved alum. Three-fourths of a pound of soap is melted in one gallon of boiling water. The liquid thus obtained is then poured over the wall, and allowed to dry. This and the water are then completely incorporated by stirring and made boiling hot. The time for preparing the wall should be a long dry one, and the wall must be as free from moisture as possible. This condition can be assisted by the judicious use of fires. Then brush the surface of the wall covered with a clean as possible. With a wide flat brush coat the surface with the boiling soap preparation, and allow it to stand for four hours. Then apply an alum solution made by dissolving half a pound of alum in four gallons of water. The alum coating may be nearly dried by the heat of the sun, or by two or three dry and harden; then another application of soap, the same as the first, must be put on. How many coats are needed depends on the condition of the wall; sometimes half a dozen will be necessary, says Woman's Life.

ELOUSE AND NET LACE.

The original blouse from which this drawing was made was of fine white embroidered net, trimmed with lace with a raised figure, but the model is equally practical for any of the thin white materials or for soft silk. The model sketched shows a collarless neck, but if desired a transparent collar of the lace could be added.

The Coiffure

New York is spending hours and hours in creating new styles for dressing the hair. The soft graceful pompadour is not banished as yet, for it plays too graceful a part in the fashionable coiffure, but the back hair is not drawn closely to the head, and is decidedly wavy and full. The hair is fluffed around the crown in any manner suited to the wearer, though the tendency is to make the fullness noticeable. The hair may be coiled, braided, puffed or arranged in any kind of a knot on the crown of the head, and tastefully arranged with fancy combs.
